

Fotto TV Dr. Akira Ikegawa Channel #157

“Drs. Elizabeth and Neil Carman’s New Book Babies Are Cosmic”

Written by: Yuko Igarashi

Dr. Akira Ikegawa has a weekly video magazine produced by Fotto TV and on their #157 Akira Ikegawa channel, he talked about the upcoming book "Babies Are Cosmic" written by Drs. Elizabeth and Neil Carman.

He talked about how he met Yuko Igarashi who still remembers "Prenatal Memory" and how she coordinated meeting with Drs. Carman in a process. He also explains the remarkable story of a boy name Issui who attains memories of being a sperm.

You can watch these remarkable stories on YouTube's "Prenatal Memory" Channel.

There are:

#1 Fuji TV Documentary Program “Memory in the Womb”

This is a 10 minutes video from a documentary program titled “Memories in the Womb” broadcasted on May 27th, 2005 by the Fuji Television Network, Inc.

#2 Tainai Kioku (Prenatal Memory in Japanese)

This 40 minutes documentary video created and produced by Dr. Akira Ikegawa in 2006.

In addition, I would like to mention Dr. Ikegawa's book, "Warau Osan (directly translated: Laughing Labor)" containing amazing birth stories. Tommy Tomomi Miyazaki shared her birth experience in this book and shared her miscarriage story on Facebook which went viral on social media in August 2017. Her story reached 1.5k readers with 115 comments and about 500 shares on Facebook. I had a great opportunity to translate her story in English and posted in October 2017. Here is a link for Facebook users:

You will be able to read Tommy's story on "Babies Are Cosmic" and you can find more details on Amazon.
